26. Measurement in psychology

Issues of measurement in psychology are fundamental to Leslie J Francis’ research programmes. This concern is well illustrated by his work on the assessment of attitude toward religion. From time to time specific studies have been published on examining instruments before exploring findings on the association between these instruments and indices or measures of religion.

Chapters

Articles

